Active Externally Funded Research Support

Exploring Pathways Among Discrimination and Health Among Somali Young Adults

Source: NIMHD

Role: MPI

Total Funding Requested: $467,127

September 2017 – April 2019

The major goals of this project are to build upon a long-standing CBPR partnership and ongoing Somali Youth Risk and Resilience Study (SYRSS) to expand our inquiry to examine experiences of discrimination, risk and resilience factors, and their relationship to mental health outcomes. Results of this study will inform a line of research aimed at preventing negative health consequences associated with discrimination and reducing disparities in health and mental health outcomes experienced by Somali young adults.

Literacy Education for Improving Engagement in Treatment and Community Inclusion for People with Serious Mental Illness

Source: BUMC

CTSI Role: MPI

Total Funding: $15,000

September 2018 – August 2019

In this proposal we will develop and pilot test an intervention to improve reading literacy in order to improve a range of health outcomes and to minimize disparities experienced by this population – Boston Medical Center site

Start Strong Boston: Readiness and Feasibility of a Promising Afterschool Urban Teen Dating Violence Intervention

Source: National Institutes of Health, Eunice Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NIH / NICHD R21)

Role: Co-I

Total Funding requested: $395,491

March 2016 – February 2019

This proposal is a collaboration between the IUHRP and the BPHC to (1) develop and refine the Start Strong Boston intervention and evaluate its cultural competence among diverse urban youth; (2) assess feasibility and acceptability of a future longitudinal, cluster-randomized trial of Start Strong's efficacy; and (3) assess feasibility of participatory methods to involve teens as Peer Leader facilitators and as Peer Researchers.

Developing Firearm Suicide Prevention Programs Tailored to Gun Owner Population Subgroups

Source: American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP)

Role: Co-I

Total Funding requested: $92,045

October 2018 – August 2019

The major goal of this project is identify subgroups of gun owners in the United States that are distinguished by their ownership of different types and quantities of firearms (hand guns, shotguns, rifles), their reasons for owning firearms, their attitudes toward gun regulation/practices/norms, their suicide risk factors, and suicide ideation, planning or attempts.

Boston Consortium Model Enhancement (BCME)

(PI: Lincoln)
Source: SAMHSA
Award: $1,560,000

Project Period: 9/30/2014-3/31/2018
Role: PI

The purpose of the Boston Public Health Commission’s proposed Boston Consortium Model Enhancement (BCME) is to expand and enhance the Boston Consortium Model, a trauma- informed, culturally-appropriate substance abuse treatment model for women of color, in order to address HIV through the development of an integrated wellness model. We seek to demonstrate the effectiveness of integrating culturally-appropriate trauma-informed substance use treatment, HIV prevention, and primary and mental health care to improve substance use outcomes and thereby reduce HIV risk for low-income women of color.

Gang affiliation and Radicalization to Violent Extremism within Somali-American Communities

(PI: Ellis)
Source: NIJ
Award: $ 34,659

Project Period: 1/1/2015 – 12/31/2017
Role: Co-I

This study extends the work of our multi-disciplinary team and in partnership with the Somali community in three cities in North America. The study allows for a third wave of data collection of the longitudinal cohort and expanded focus on gang involvement among Somali adolescent and young adult refugees.

PAATHS Peer to Peer Project

(PI: Nieves, Boston Public Health Commission)
Source: SAMHSA
Award: $215,106

Project Period: 9/30/2014-9/29/2017
Role: Evaluator

The goal of this project, “The PAATHS Peer to Peer Project”, is to enhance substance use treatment and recovery outcomes for Latino and African American Men and Women 18 and older with a history of co-occurring substance abuse and mental health disorders through the innovative development of a Peer to Peer Model.

Effectiveness of DECIDE in Patient-Provider Communication, Therapeutic Alliance & Care Continuation

(PI: Alegria)
Source: PCORI

Project Period: 08/01/2013-07/31/2016
Role: Co-Investigator

This PCORI study builds on an earlier research project, the RQP-MH (DECIDE) intervention, to address the following aims: 1) to examine differences in communication patterns and therapeutic alliance between ethnically/racially matched and non-matched patient-provider dyads; 2) to evaluate whether matching mediates/moderates the relationship between communication patterns, therapeutic alliance and continuance in care; and 3) to test the effect of an enhanced DECIDE intervention on therapeutic alliance, patient-provider communication, and continuance in care in concordant and discordant dyads.

The Meaning and Impact of Limited Literacy for People with Serious Mental Illness

(PI: Lincoln)

Project Period: 5/1/2012 – 3/31/2016

Source: NIMH R01

Role: PI

Award: $1,456,649

This study relies upon a mixed-methods, service-user informed, research design to examine the multiple domains of limited literacy among people with serious mental illness using public, urban, mental health outpatient clinics. Relationships among limited literacy (reading, aural and numeracy), psychiatric disorder, mental health service utilization and other salient mechanisms will be examined. Finally, the meaning and impact of limited literacy in the lives of people with SMI will be examined as well as the ways in which limited literacy may serve as a barrier to recovery and community inclusion.

Identifying and countering early risk factors for violent extremism among Somali refugee communities resettled in North America

(PI: Ellis)

Project Period: 1/1/2013 – 10/30/15

Source: DOD/Minerva

Role: Co-I

Award: $62,289

The goal of this international research project is to empirically examine Social Control Theory (specifically the ways in which trauma and weak social bonds create conditions conducive to increasing violence) in relation to attitudes towards political violence among Somali refugees resettled in the United States and Canada. This study draws upon a multi-disciplinary team and in partnership with the Somali community in three cities in North America. The study examines early risk factors, including trauma exposure and discrimination and poverty, for the endorsement of violent extremism among Somali adolescent and young adult refugees.

Understanding pathways to and away from violent radicalization among resettled Somali refugees

(PI: Ellis)

Project Period: 1/1/2013 – 12/31/16

Source: NIJ

Role: Co-I

Award: $53,514

This international study draws upon a multi-disciplinary team and in partnership the Somali community in three cities will examine the pathways to diverse outcomes. The study examines early risk factors, including trauma exposure, discrimination, and social context, for violent extremism, radicalization and gang involvement, criminality, and positive civic engagement among Somali adolescent and young adult refugees through a longitudinal mixed method interview design. The roles of trauma, social bonds and mental health will be examined.

Effects of a neighborhood experiment on adolescent female psychological distress

(PI: Osypuk)
Source: NIMH
Award: $433,549

Project Period: 9/5/10 – 8/31/12
Role: Co-I

Aim: Examine the effects of a multi-level intervention that involves the community and the individual, on levels of distress among adolescents in the MTO experiment.

Boston Puerto Rican Health Study

(PI: Tucker)
Source: NIH
Award: $6,762,123

Project Period: 8/20/10 – 7/1/12
Role: Co-I

The major goals of this project are to extend follow-up and continue to measure and analyze relevant characteristics and health outcomes associated with aging in this established cohort of Puerto Rican adults, so that we may clarify the causal direction of identified associations and describe the progression of chronic conditions toward their more prevalent physical and cognitive decline.

Transition Age Youth and the B-CAMHP

(PIs: Lincoln and Delman)
Source: NIMH R21
Award: $414,866

Project Period: 09/09 – 06/12
Role: Co-PI

This proposal extends the work of the Boston Community Academic Mental Health Partnership to address the critical issues of housing and transition age youth in Boston. This CBPR project will help to increase our understanding of the role of housing in the lives and recovery of young adults living with serious mental illness.

Pilot Study of Literacy in Lives of People with Mental Illness

(PI: Lincoln)
Source: NIMH, Center for the Study of Recovery in Social Context Pilot Project
Award: $15,000

This pilot study, drawing upon the principles of CBPR, examines the role of literacy in the lives of people with schizophrenia, major affective disorders and other severe mental disorders. A team of researchers, providers and service users developed a qualitative interview guide designed to better understand the ways that literacy and struggles with literacy impact the lives and recovery of people living with mental illness. Twenty interviews, 10 with people with limited literacy and 10 with people with higher literacy were conducted with clients receiving Massachusetts Department of Mental Health case management services.

(PI: Lincoln)

Source: College of Social Sciences

Award: $4800

Project Period: 7/1/2013 – 8/30/2014

Role: PI

This study allowed for the collection of pilot data in Adelaide Australia for an international comparison of limited literacy among people with serious mental illness. One hundred interviews will be conducted in the comparison study which will allow for the exploration of possible mechanisms of association among mental health factors and literacy.

Exploring the Use of Innovative Technologies in Behavioral Health

(PI: Lincoln)

Source: Provost Award

Award: $48,000

Project Period: 7/1/12 – 12/30/13

NEU Role: PI

This study is designed to identify factors that serve as facilitators and/or barriers to the use of technology in behavioral health care. To do this we will examine the following study questions. What are the experiences of behavioral health services providers with technology? What are providers' attitudes and beliefs about the use of technology in their work? What are the experiences of behavioral health services users with technology in behavioral health care? What are users' attitudes and beliefs about the use of technology in their care? A mixed-method design is proposed.
